Death Visits Man Seven Times, Loses

By REID BUNDY

When Delbert F. McKernan woke up around 3 a.m. one winter morning in the Millard Filmore Hospital in Buffalo, N. Y., and saw a priest standing by his bed, he knew immediately he had just had another close call with death. That was his fourth.

Last August, McKernan went through a similar experience and knew he had just had another close call with death. That was his seventh.

Sixty-two-year-old Delbert McKernan, who lives at 1321 W. Carson St., has been prepared for death seven times during his life and has emerged with the conviction that one must have faith in God, man, and himself to win any battle for health and happiness.

"I feel that live the past three months that I have been the most happy man in the world today," McKernan said this week. "And I want to broadcast my story to the world."

Church Helped

McKernan was born in Buffalo, N. Y., on July 12, 1891, to what he called "one of the poorest families of 11 children that I know of." He explained that the St. Joseph Church and School in Buffalo gave the family clothing and food.

Close brushes with death started for McKernan when he still was a teen-ager. Suffering from double pneumonia prior to the days of "wonder drugs," he pulled through despite the doctor's warning to the family that he could not live.

Ten years later, in 1914, severe appendicitis brought him to death's door for the second time in his young life. He astounded the attending physicians by refusing to succumb to the poisons which wracked his body.

Following this bout with death, McKernan started on his long career as an engineer. With only a minimum of education, he joined the Boston & Team Roller Co. in 1916 and was soon one of their top representatives in New York.

Chief Engineer

Through the years McKernan increased his qualifications as an engineer until he wound up in 1938 as the chief engineer for the Buffalo Sewer Authority.

His road to this position, however, was not a straight one. In 1936 he was hospitalized after a heavy drinking bout and doctors who didn't know McKernan's future, gave up on him again. He fooled them just as he had on two previous occasions and was soon back on the job.

Cancer Strikes

In 1942 cancer began eating away at his body. He was striking so badly that it was during this illness that he awoke to find the priest preparing him for death. Despite warnings that he could never pull through it, he insisted on the operation.

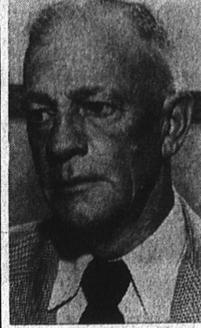

Stroke Again

In 1952, McKernan was struck again. Intestinal hemorrhage brought him for the sixth time to the point of death. But he refused to die.

Last August the figure of death in the form of cancer visited him again. Here's the way he tells it:

"On Aug. 17, 1953, I hemorrhaged from stomach and bowel for 12 hours. I was alone in the house, could not get a doctor. I prayed and promised God that if I lived I would donate any and everything I make over living expenses to the job of building miniature furniture and toys for crippled children of all faiths, color, and creed." He's keeping his promise.

Tomorrow morning McKernan will board a plane for Buffalo to visit his family, which he hasn't seen for several years. And, he says he never felt better in his life!

DELBERT F. MCKERNAN Wins Death Battles

Sermon to Tell You Favored, Nine to One

As Americans of all faiths gather in a general Thanksgiving to God for the fruits of forests and field provided for common necessities and human enjoyment, members and friends of Park View Lutheran Church will gather to hear an especially illustrated sermon, "Nine to One in Favor of You!" Wednesday evening before Thanksgiving at 7:30 o'clock.

The Rev. Theodor B. Hax, pastor of the modernly constructed Mt. Calvary Lutheran congregation in the Crenshaw Center District, will deliver the sermon. In connection with the service, the members of Park View will bring their sealed pledges which represent their voluntarily promised contributions for the year 1954.

These contributions will be placed on the altar during dedication ceremonies on Sunday, Jan. 2, 1954.

Track Slates Midget Race

A special midget match race has been added to Carroll Speedway's unique pro-amateur sports car program this afternoon. It was announced this week by Race Director Don Basile. The addition features six top-flight U.R.A. Artists.

The six thunderbug pilots which promise to bring extra thrills to the day's events include Billy Cantrell, Don Cameron, Jack Jordan, Joe DeFart, Hall Minyard, and Howard Kelly. They will compete over the tricky "B" shaped road racing course.

SALT CONTENT

Four barrels of water from the Great Salt Lake in Utah will produce about one barrel of salt, after the usual evaporation processes.

West Basin Group To Raise Nearly $25,000 by Tax

A special assessment of $20,431.83 will be levied to support the purchase of water needed to continue operation of the West Basin project until June 30, 1954, the Water Association voted unanimously at last Thursday's evening meeting.

A balance of approximately $25,000 will be raised through solicitation of various firms in the area to obtain the estimated $45,000 needed to complete the test. A special committee of the Association is working under the chairmanship of R. W. Pritchard to raise the required additional amount.

Paul Baumann, assistant chief engineer of the Los Angeles County Flood Control District, reported to the Association that the test is now entering a new phase.

The barrier has now been raised everywhere along the test front to an elevation several feet above sea level, and input of fresh water into the wells is being systematically reduced in order to balance the barrier at a uniform elevation of two feet above mean sea level, he said.
